Music Lesson Practice Chart

Being a good musician is not as easy as it looks! In lessons, we will practice positive skills every time we are together. This helps a lot, but if you are ever going to get really good at it, it will take lots of extra practice. The chart below will help you remember what you practiced and how long you practiced for.

Although I do not require that students keep track of their practice on this chart, I have found that it really helps both you and I know what is working, and what I need to help more with. Please make sure to write the day you practiced, what you worked on, and how long you worked on it. Also, feel free to add any notes about questions you might have so you don't forget to ask me!
